

VERONICA L. KESSENICH

BIO:

As owner and director of Kessenich Contemporary, Veronica Kessenich, introduces established patrons, burgeoning collectors, and art aficionados with innovative artists. Beginning in 2011, the gallery has grown to include five national artists whose work marries formal elegance with conceptual intelligence. Kessenich Contemporary is a virtual art gallery and full-service art consulting firm allowing collectors to peruse, at their leisure, the sophisticated paintings and drawings contained within its domain. Veronica Kessenich received her professional training at renowned Atlanta gallery, Fay Gold Gallery. As director of the gallery, Kessenich worked side-by-side with esteemed gallerist, Fay Gold, whose mentorship helped facilitate a deep love of the art business. Receiving her formal education with a Bachelor's of Arts from Saint Mary's College, Notre Dame, IN and a Master's of Philosophy (in Art History) from St. Andrews University, Scotland, Kessenich combines her business acumen with a concentrated education in Art History. Kessenich is an Art History instructor at the Art Institutes of Atlanta, the Art Institutes of Atlanta-Decatur and the Savannah College of Art & Design (Atlanta). She is also an active member of the arts advisory board for The Creatives Project as well as participating in various arts organizations in the city of Atlanta. Her curatorial expertise, professionalism, and charismatic personality guarantees that Kessenich Contemporary will provide personalized and directed services.
